Akunok

Design Maja Ganszyniec

A play on the words acoustic and nook, Akunok is about carefully created seclusion — rather than establishing enclosed rooms.

An effective way to improve a soundscape and create spatial diversity.

Akunok ranks among the best, with top scores from independent interior acoustics expert Acoustic Facts.

"When you look at it more closely, you see the details that make it unique. To me, this is a way to create objects that will last a long time." — Maja Ganszyniec

"It isn't just the sound-absorbing material inside the seats that dampens sound. Akunok's corners and voids also act as sound traps."

Elegant design language with associations to Japanese architecture.

A clever twin screen with a large,
sound-absorbing surface.

The two Akunok seats are generously sized, with pocket springs for maximum comfort, and sound-absorbing infill.

as open-plan offices and co-working spaces.

An oval table for your laptop and a round
one for your teacup.

Product family

The concept consists of generously deep and comfortable acoustic seats in one-seater and two-seater versions; an innovative floor screen; and two neat tables, one round and the other oval.

Akunok acoustic seating

Available as a one-seater (1090 x 1290 x 980 mm) and a two-seater (1990x1290x980 mm), the highback Akunok acoustic seat features pocket springs for maximum comfort, making it a cosy booth for peace, reflection and rest in environments characterised by openness and movement, such as co-working spaces and lobbies.

The two Akunok seats are generously sized, with pocket springs for maximum comfort, and sound-absorbing infill. They are marked by uncompromising quality and attention to detail, such as their beautiful French seam and a tubular steel base that protrudes just enough to give Akunok its unique character inspired by Japanese interiors. Akunok is available in a selection of fabrics and colours. Its base also comes in several colours.

Akunok floor screen

Consisting of solid pine frames, soft sound-absorbing infill and fabric with an elegant French seam, the Akunok twin floor screen is a simple yet effective acoustic solution. The two partially overlapping screens emphasise Akunok's spatial presence while significantly enhancing acoustic performance. The space created between the two screens acts as a sound trap. The self-supporting floor screen lacks any protruding legs that impede furniture arrangement. Its base is available in several colours. The floor screen measures 1570x1610x312 mm.

Akunok tables

The Akunok series includes two handy and versatile tables, one round (348 x 380 x 620 mm) and one oval (628 x 380 x 620 mm), suitable for a laptop. Both table tops are made of oak. A clever base with two tubular steel legs lets users pull the table forward so the table top slightly overlaps the seat cushion. Its base is available in several colours.

The generously deep, highback acoustic seat is a secluded space unto itself in dynamic environments.

Its elegant, clean and honest design language evokes a subtle association with Japanese architecture.

Maja Ganszyniec

Born in 1981, acclaimed designer Maja Ganszyniec is based in Warsaw, Poland, where she opened her own studio in 2013. True to its "Do no harm" motto, Studio Ganszyniec focuses on designing products that offer people the greatest possible benefit while having the least possible impact on nature. Her design methods include traditional craftsmanship and using natural and recycled materials. Having already received numerous design awards and nominations, she was shortlisted for the Dezeen Awards 2022 'Emerging Design Studio of the Year' prize. In addition to Abstracta, she collaborates with other companies, including IKEA, Duka, Comforty, and Noti.

A secluded nook for peace, reflection, and rest.

Akunok is a composition of flat surfaces. Nothing is completely closed." Its intriguing design language stems from an ambitious objective to radically enhance soundscapes.

We create better soundscapes

At Abstracta, we have been working to create better soundscapes since 1972 – which makes us acoustics pioneers. Today, we offer a wide variety of solutions for different types of environments and requirements – from thoughtfully designed sound-absorbent screens and surfaces to innovative furniture with integrated acoustic characteristics. And in close collaboration with some of the world's most influential contemporary designers, we are constantly exploring new ways to create better soundscapes.

We manufacture our furniture in Småland, Sweden, and our customers are located throughout the world. Abstracta is part of Lammhults Design Group.
